HAPPY DISCOVERY.
A certain Cure for that alarming and dreadful Disorder
The Yellow Fever,
As well as any other dangerous putrid fever, fever and ague, and other inveterate and complicated diseases, by the use of the
POUDRE UNIQUE,
WELL known and patented in England, France, Poland, and all the capital cities in Europe, where the most astonishing cures have been effected on persons judged incurable by all physicians. In a Treatise printed in London, on the properties of this powder, by T. Seymour, M. D. late Chemist to his Majesty, there are listed two hundred cases, where this most valuable remedy has proved infallible, in all kind of fevers, pleurisy, bloody flux, inveterate rheumatism, distention, apoplexy, paralysis, yellow jaundice, singuaria, worms in children, scurvy and the most inveterate and complicated venereal disease. It is likewise the best preparative for the small pox and measles, of the greatest utility for young as well as for older ladies at the critical epoch of their life. The efficacy of this powder in several of the above diseases has been discovered by chance, and so it has been in the yellow fever last year, by Mr. Mahy, who cured several by administering only two of the said powders, and lost not a single patient which he undertook to cure, as proved and attested by the here annexed certificates, whose original may be seen at Andrew Hall's umbrella shop, No. 131, corner of Chestnut and Fourth streets, the only place where these powders are to be had, with proper directions for the use of them.—Price two dollars.

The usefulness and certainty of this remedy being so great for so many dangerous disorders, any person willing to be provided with those powders, will please to apply very soon, as the quantity at hand is not very large, and it is doubtful if for a long time, or if ever any other genuine will be imported, the secret remaining only in the hands of the inventor, in Europe, and never being communicated, or discovered by any other person.
N. B. In the yellow and putrid fevers, this powder must be taken the second, or at least the third day.
We the subscribers, during the late sickness in this city, having taken the yellow fever, applied to Mr. Mahy for his medical assistance, we do hereby certify, that by a certain powder, called the Poudre Unique, we were perfectly recovered from the said fatal sickness, and from an experience of the happy effects of the above most valuable medicine, consider it our duty to make the same known, for the benefit of our fellow citizens.

he waformely the property of Backwith Butler,
elq. at lived a considerable time with Potter, who kept tavern in Frederickburg, having been such company and travelled with several gentlemen through different parts of this State, he is much known. It is therefore conjectured he will pass for some of the northern cities or towns,
where he may perhaps have crossed the ridge,
where he has any other belonging to major Butler.

This fellow is about five feet seven inch a high,
well proportioned and walks active and brisk, his countenance is open and agreeable enough when in good humour; he can hardly be surpris'd in showing his, and is a very capable waiting-man, house servant, barber, &c. To describe his dress would be useless, as he possessed a variety of clothes, though when dressed lately, he wore a green coat bound with white furring and spotted jacket and breeches. Whoever brings him home or secures in goal in this or any other State the said slave, so that I may get him again, shall have the above re-tion of Messrs. Smith and Chandler both of lib-patronage of a discerning public, permanently to establish themselves in this undertaking, their whole study and attention will be devoted to the improvement of their pupils.—There will be con-

through a complete course of academical studies, or those parts only that may be pointed out, as more immediately adapted to their particular views in life.
—Certain portions of their time will be assigned for geography, history, extracts, composition, and declamations in French and English, in order to form early habits of writing and speaking with propriety.—Visits from parents and literary characters, gratefully received. The hours of study are from 9 to 12 A. M. and from 2 to 5 P. M.

and Portuguese languages; and to draw in their proper modes and stile, all kinds of writing, whether legal, commercial, or epistolary.

PORTLAND, October 29.
Villainy.

On Thursday night last, an attempt was made to burn a large store owned by Mrs.
Fox, situated in the centre of the town, one part of which on the ground floor, is occupied by Mr. Butler, as a dwelling house and Book Binder's shop, another part was rented to one Henry Hunt, alias Harry W-Hunt, late of Boston, as a merchant's store, and the chamber is the printing office of Messrs. Rand and Burdick. Between the hours of twelve and one, Mr. Butler discovered that a fire had burnt through the partition, which separated his apartment from Hunt's. The cry of fire was immediately raised, the bells were rung and the town instantly alarmed. Fortunately, the wind was remarkably still, and by the timely exertions of the citizens, the fire was extinguished.

A tar bucket and a pail with tar in it, together with other combustibles, such as fla-vings, tarred rags, &c. were found placed in several parts of the store, and several shelves were covered with tar. A piece of cloth was also found placed before the glass over the front door.

When the fire was first discovered, the doors and windows were all secure, so that no person from without could possibly have entered, unless with a key. Circumstances considered led to a suspicion that Hunt himself was the guilty person. He was immediately therefore taken into custody and the next day examined before the justices of the court of general sessions of the peace, which was then sitting.

The prisoner has confessed that his goods
were insured in Boston, against fire, and alferts that he had five thousand dollars worth in the store. However, the goods found there were to a very small amount. He also confessed that the tar-bucket was his as he had picked it up several days before on the steps, and carried it into the store. The evidence, in short was so strong against him, that he was ordered by the Court to give bond for 5000 dollars, and find security for 5000 more, or be committed to prison. Not being able to find bail, he stands committed for trial at the Supreme Court to be holden in this town in July next.

BOSTON, November 1.
The partizans of France are challenged to show one instance of a nation getting liberty by allowing another nation to intermeddle and to dictate in its affairs. Independence has been often lost in this way, but when was liberty preferred by it. One might as well talk of the freedom of a jail. The pretence therefore of the French that they offer this blessing to every other people and state, is the grossest imposture
and deceit that ever was practiced, whetever doctor Logan and Vice Mazzei may say to the contrary.

If the depots of France were sincere in their offers of peace, what would they do? They would acknowledge that they were much in the wrong when they insulted us, and refused to receive our ministers of peace; they would promise to restore all they had robbed us of, with reasonable allowance for our damages and losses;
and this they would engage and give security to do; they would do justice when they professed to respect it, and finally they would take care to prevent the repetition of injuries by disarming their pirates and punishing those who have whip-pled, murdered and robbed our citizens. It would be required by us that reparation should prove the sincerity of their sorrow for the wrongs
they have done us.

If France is insincere, and means to make Americans dupes, by a lullaby offer of a new negotiation, what would she do. Exactly what he is said to be doing. Give good words, to turn away our just wrath; when that is allayed
under the mask of friendship, renew the old scheme to divide and govern. We deserve chains if we accept them again.

The Irish patriots, after having set their own country on fire, are running away by the light of it, as wharf rats are said to flee in troops from one house where they have been trapped with rats bait, to another where they smell
good provisions; and it seems to be the unlucky fame of America to be the home, the Jerusalem, for runaways. What sort of society shall we have—how shall we be made up by the time that distracted Europe gets settled. All that other States throw away we are to take, and say thank you. Their offer is to be our alms-house.
We are to swell our population with the four leaves of Ireland, and the caustic spirit of France.
The wretched cauldron, in the play of Macbeth,
was not filled with worse ingredients than America will be. Surely we need a Sedition law to keep our own rogues from cutting our throats, and an Alien law to prevent the invasion by a host of foreign rogues to assist them. The inruption of the Goths and Vandals into the Roman Empire did not more seriously threaten its overthrow than the terrible preference all foreign incendiaries indulge for our happy country; it forebodes confusion and whiffy insurrection. France and Great Britain use America very feverishly when they presume to make it a Botany Bay for their convicts, a bettering house
for their knaves, and a bedlam for mad people.
The New-England States will hang some of them, and others Pennsylvania will send to Congress.

It seems as if America was already a divided people. The Jacobin party has its minister in Paris, and he is accredited by the directory; probably instead of paying for that honor, he has money to take, and some of it may be employed perhaps to pay Lyon's fine. As the party thus exercise the powers of sovereignty, it is to be expected they will proclaim a Sans-Culotte Independence, as soon as the French fleet can find leisure to transport Madame Hughes' black lions of liberty and equality, to aid the cause of Liberty in the Southern States.

The zeal, desperation and energy of the Jacobins is ever greater, when they are most in disgrace. Late events, far from converting them have sharpened their passions into ten fold rage. They long to retaliate upon honest men, friends of government, the contempt that blisters and sealds their own reputations. The common disgrace of all Jacobins too unites them the more closely together, and gives to the party the power of acting in mass. To despise the force of one's enemy is ever deemed unwise and rash. Let Federalists look to it, that the foes of all good order do not profit by their turpitudes in the election. With a Jacobin Congress, our liberty and independence would not live to celebrate another fourth of July.

American spirit is much admired in Europe; and it has done more to disgrace the mock republicanism of the French, than any event since that bloody revolution began its work of death. If however Talleyrand's lullaby, should first disarm, and then divide the people, Europeans will say, perhaps we are not cowards but surely we are fools. The very game was played by France against Switzerland. France encroached, and when the Swiss resisted it, she encroached. Then lulled them asleep again, encroached once more, hired a party in their public Councils, such a party as she has in Congress, and then Switzerland waked up, bleeding, plundered, and in chains. Talleyrand is like a cat, he retires from the hole to encourage the mouse to come out, and already he arranges his bloody paws to spring upon us.

There is a vagabond Irishman, or Scotchman, in the third parish of D. man, who has stirred up a few ignorant people to erect a liberty pole, with a painted board, and the words Liberty, Equality, no Stamp act, no Sedition or Alien bill, downfall to tyranny of America, peace and retirement, long live the Vice President and minority—may moral virtue be the basis of civil Government.

Many of the justices of the peace, on their way to attend the sessions, had opportunity to behold this standard of infurrection against the laws and magistracy of the country.

Arming our country has not kindled the open anger of France, and produced that dreadful war the croaking Jacobins foreboded. On the contrary, it has softened our ci-devant ally, while our coaxing, and tears and sublimations did but irritate her. O, the depth of the breadth of the wisdom of a Roxbury town meeting. Sneaking would not, dear General, have left us a single ship by this day. Self defence has saved hundreds. As experience has thus disgraced the councils of the Jacobin town meetings let the demagogues who stirred them up to advise Congress, become modest in future. Better councils were followed and we may yet save our country, if these same demagogues will let government defend itself and us from the lying efforts of peace that Talleyrand fills the newspapers with, and from their agents to divide and enslave us.

One of the late French papers relates the following anecdote:—“Citizen Caillard, the French ambassador at Berlin, before the arrival of Sieyes, had been invited to court with great etiquette. After dinner a pack of cards was presented to the count de Gortz governor of Berlin, in order to make a party with the French minister. The Prussian knowing it was intended he should play with Caillard, had the inference to say to the chamberlain of the court, loud enough for the king to hear him—“Sir, I do not play with a Plebeian.” The king instantly said to him, “my dear Gortz, your carriage is in waiting for you below; I shall get another officer to finish the party.” Gortz was obliged to retire at the instant.

TRENTON, Novemb. 5.
On Friday last an elegant entertainment was given by the inhabitants of the city and vicinity, in honor of this their much esteemed and respected fellow-citizen, and especially in token of their high approbation of his patriotic and independent conduct in the late mission to France.

At three o'clock he was waited on, at his lodging, by a committee of citizens, appointed for the purpose, and conducted, together with the Heads of departments of the general government, who attended him, to the City Hotel, where he was received by the Mayor of the city, and introduced to the company.

After partaking of a sumptuous dinner, the following Toasts were drunk.

1. The President, the rock of our political salvation: May his patriotism and prudence be rewarded by the affectionate support of the whole Union.

2. The friends of administration in Congress; Resignation and repugnance to its enemies.

3. The Lieutenant General and Commander in chief of the armies of the United States; The splendor of the day star is his, and slowly may he set, with a full orb of glory.

4. The Armies of the United States; May their patriotism, discipline and courage, repel the World in arms, if disposed to invade us.

5. Commodore Barry and the rising Navy of America; May her flag float untarnished, and her crews speak in thunder to the pirates of the World.

6. The Militia of the Union, the nursery of our armies and bulwark of the nation.

7. The Volunteer Corps who have tendered their services to their country; May the heart of each be an altar of patriotism, and their arms hurl destruction on their foes.

8. The legislature of New-Jersey; May the state they represent still deserve the wreath of federalism, not unmingled with sprigs of the laurel.

9. Our Sister States; May our union be perpetual, and may we never be divided by French diplomatic skill, or the misrepresentations of their internal enemies.

10. Our constitution and our altars; May the first defy ambition and avarice, and the last remain unshaken by the new fangled bloody philosophy.

11. The Real Supporters of our constitution, the friends of order and good government; peace, liberty and independence to them; and may the enemies thereof have no resting place among us.

12. The memory of the heroes who have fallen in defence of true liberty and religion.

13. American principles; Amor Patrie unadulterated with foreign influence, free from domestic faction or groundless discontent.

14. The spirit of '76, revived in '98; We were born free, and let us determine with our voice to die so.

15. American policy; Commerce with all nations, but a permanent alliance with none.

16. American Fair; May their modesty be the needle that points us to their beauties, and never may their charms blest the bosom of a Jacobin.

By General PINCKNEY. The fate of New-Jersey; May the rank which she has acquired in virtue, patriotism and military fame, be perpetual.

After the general and the heads of departments had retired.

Major General PINCKNEY, our late envoy and faithful friend; The palm of the cabinet, has already graced his brow, and he comes to share the laurels of the field.

By the President. The heads of departments; with clean hands and pure hearts, may they continue to do honor to their station.

By the Vice-President. No dishonorable concessions to obtain peace, and war before tribute.

By particular desire, the third toast was repeated standing, with 3 cheers.

The Gazette.

PHILADELPHIA,
THURSDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 8.

End of the Century.

I cannot agree with Mr. Cobbett, that the matter in dispute, is of a trifling nature, since unless some decision can be had, some conviction worked in the minds of the ninety-nine men, the dispute threatens to result in very great confusion of dates and calculations. As Mr. Cobbett, however, has declared himself on the occasion, it is to be hoped we shall have something rational offered in support of opinions, which now appear like the confused dreams of a dithered imagination, to support which nothing has hitherto been offered but misconception, noise and fury, and which induced me to apply this passage from Horace.

Credite, Pisones, illi tabula fore librum Perfundere, cuius, velut xgi fomena, vanae Frangitur species."

Which I beg the reader to substitute for the imperfect and erroneous quotation inserted in Tuesday's Gazette.

It appears that the New-York citizeness like our citizens, has her bully, who hiding himself behind her petticoats, pours forth his calumny in copious streams: This is no other than a renegade Irishman named Burk, a low, drunken, lying, vagabond scoundrel, more loathsome and contemptible than even Lloyd, Callender or Duane. Have these Ladies prepared themselves for these extremities which await them? It would be truly an elegant Embarrass to behold a woman who could boast of Civilization only, immured in the same cell with either of those Beasts; and, let me tell you, Ladies, this is a case in no wise impossible. We have a trap for traitors which snags them ere they are aware. And "Thou the Villain 'scape awhile, he feels Slow vengeance, like a Bloodhound, at his heels."

MR. FENNO.

An Editor, eminent for acuteness of penetration, contends that the Eighteenth Century ends with the year 1799. I pretend not to any depth of research on this subject, altho' it is a topic of several years standing; yet I think the decision I have made on this point inevitable, and refusing from very simple and very obvious principles.

I will ask, what is a century? The complete period of an hundred years, and of course not ninety-nine, which wants one of it. To render this period complete, or in other words to compass this century, the last year and the first are as essential component parts as any intermediate years; and I will ask if the dogma against which I contend does not go to the entire abolition of the centennial or hundredth year, which is no longer the hundredth or closing year of the century, upon this principle, but the commencement or first year of the new century. The following simple course of numbers throws some light on the subject:

1—2—3—4—5—6—7—8—9—10—11—12 Here it will be seen, that, though we nominate an hour not until it has past or gone by, whereas we speak of a year, while pending, (a difference founded on custom, but naturally arising from the long duration of the latter) yet in either case, and I maintain, in every other which can be imagined, neither the first nor the last member of the term can be dispensed with, or otherwise disposed of, than in the hitherto accustomed order.

From the beginning of year 1, to the end of year 99, is still but ninety-nine years, nor can it, I think, be made out more, by all the wit of Mr. Cobbett or all the sophistry of his correspondents.

I have something more to offer on the subject, which other occupations preclude at present; and which, I have the vanity to believe, sanctioned by several unquestionable authorities which will be adduced in support of my opinion, must work conviction in the mind of Mr. Cobbett, and all his correspondents. CERTO.

ELEGANT COMPLIMENT.

The elegant Flag presented by Mrs. Washington, to the Silver Greys of Alexandria, contained an Eagle as part of the device, the talon of which embraced a strong likeness of the President of the United States.

The only interesting article of news with which this day's mail furnishes us, is the intelligence of Lieutenant-General Washington having actually commenced his journey hither. His arrival here, which may daily be expected, will fill the city with rapture. But it will have a more important and valuable effect, in giving new life and vigor to the Volunteer institutions, which, even now, are the chief hope of the Empire.

One Luther Baldwin, of Newark, was arrested, on Saturday last, by the Marshal of the State of New Jersey, under the late Sedition act, for expressing a wish that the President of the United States was dead.

Sedition, by all the laws of God and man, is, and ever has been criminal, and when it is not, the laws will be crimes and magistrates will twine. Behold France! government after government has been laid down, till the sword cut off the tip of Sedition's tongue, and since that it has been made as a Turk's.

VERMONT.

From Vergennes, Oct. 26.

"Both Houses of the Legislature, with but five dissenting voices, have concurred in the amendment of the Federal Constitution, proposed by Massachusetts, for precluding Foreigners from a seat in Congress. This, I presume, will afford you and our other friends sincere pleasure."

XVIII. Century.

From Mr. Cobbett's Gazette.

Mr. Cobbett,

In your paper of last Saturday, Mr. T. W. has asserted that "the moment we began to date 1798, then were 1798 years past." I would all this positive Mr. T. W. whether November was past the moment we began to date November?—He says, he "could bring forward in support of his assertion many arguments." But he has brought forward none.

Had a transaction been recorded six months after the commencement of the first century, what year must it have been dated in? Certainly in the year one, although that year was not then completed. And if the first year was completed on the last of December in the year one, as has been observed, the first hundred years must have been completed on the last of December in the year 100; and consequently the eighteenth century must be completed on the last of December, 1800.

When Mr. T. W. makes an assertion, he ought to produce some argument to support it; and when he comments on the opinion of others, if he chuses to do it in an unmanly style, I shall suppose it is that which he has been most accustomed to.

C.

6th day of the 11th month, 1798.

We have long been boasting of the enlightened Eighteenth century: it will be a curious proof of our new light, if we should not be able to determine when that century ends.

We are happy to insert the following.

TENTS.

As a procession has been, rather hastily, announced to the public, as designed to move from the Tents to-day, the Committee are under the necessity of informing their fellow citizens, that, owing to unavoidable delay in providing a sufficiency of cloathing to equip the whole number of persons under their charge, it will be postponed, if not relinquished. The season is now far advanced, and the increase of cold renders it advisable to contract, as much as possible, the time of their continuance in a situation so exposed to its inclemency. The Committee, therefore, think it highly probable, that when the moment shall arrive which fees every individual completely clad, their duty will dictate an immediate dismissal.

By order of the Committee, PETER MIERCKEN, Chairman.

To Mr. JOSIAH DICKINSON, Steward to the Encampment of Masters' Place.

SIR,

THAT happy period so long and so anxiously looked for, which no further commands or requires our services or yours, having now arrived, we cannot in justice to our feelings and your distinguished merit withhold a public acknowledgment of your eminent and meritorious services.—The able support that you have afforded us, entitles you to our warmest thanks and gives you strong claims on our friendship.—Your humane, upright and indefatigable attention to the distressed objects under our care has endeared you to every individual amongst them and your name will be long remembered by every grateful mind with veneration and respect.—Your declining to accept any pecuniary reward for your services is an additional proof of your virtues.

That a life of such real worth and public utility as yours may be long preserved, is the sincere prayer of your friends and humble servants.

PROPOSALS,

Insurance Company of North America.
For Insurance against FIRE, on Dwelling-Houses, Ware-Houses, and other Buildings (and on Goods contained in such Buildings) distant from Philadelphia, in the United States.

I. Common Insurances, on hazards of the first class, will be undertaken at a premium of about half per cent. per annum. For extra hazardous risks a larger premium will be required, which will vary according to circumstances, seldom exceeding one per cent. per annum; but in some instances, where the property insured is not only in itself extra hazardous, but rendered still more so by the vicinity of extra hazardous buildings and occupations, the premium demanded will be raised according to circumstances.

Houses and Ware-Houses, the walls and partitions of which are wholly of stone or brick, well constructed, so as to be guarded as well as may be against fires from within, and free from extra hazardous buildings and occupations in their neighborhood, will be deemed hazardous of the first class, and may be insured to their full value.

Also Goods and Merchandise, not an extra hazardous kind, in casks, bales, or packages, deposited in such buildings, to an amount not exceeding $4000 dollars; but if more than this sum is required to be insured in one tenement, an additional premium will be required, in proportion to circumstances.

II. Insurances will also be made on buildings and goods extra hazardous, at premiums proportioned to the risks. But it is not easy to arrange these under particular heads or classes, so as to describe each with the necessary accuracy. Each case must therefore be decided upon according to the circumstances attending it; and these circumstances will, in general, appear from the description accompanying the application.

Buildings partly constructed of brick or stone, are preferable to those wholly wooden. And in both cases, the style of building, how they are occupied, how they are situated, the neighboring buildings, and how occupied, are considerations to be taken into view. And with respect to goods, their tendency, whether from their nature, or from the manner in which they are exposed, either to combustion or to increase of an accident, and their liability in such state to receive damage by wet, or by sudden and hasty removal, or to be stolen in time of confusion and hurry, are all circumstances of weight; and the premiums must be proportioned accordingly.

III. The following conditions are to be understood by the parties.

1st. The Insurance is not binding till the stipulated premium be paid; but it shall be deemed effectual from the time of such payment and acceptance thereof, whether the policy be immediately signed or not.

2d. Insurances may be renewed at the expiration of the term of the policy, without further expense than the payment of the premium of the renewed term, the circumstances continuing the same as they were understood by the Insurers at the time the former insurance was made; but the payment of the premium is essential to such renewal; and if the party insured suffers any time to elapse after the expiration of the former insurance, before he pays a premium for the renewal, he is not insured during such time; nor can the Insurance be renewed on the former policy but by computing the commencement of the renewal from the expiration of the former insurance. The subject of insurance may nevertheless be open to treaty for a new insurance.

3d. If any other insurance be made on the same property; it must be made known at the time of application, otherwise the policy made on such application will be void.

4th. Goods held in trust, or on consignment, may be insured as such in a separate policy; but they are not to be considered as insured otherwise.

5th. This company will not be liable or accountable for any loss or damage occasioned by any foreign invasion, or by any military or usurped force, or by reason of any civil commotion; or occasioned by gunpowder, aquarioris or other thing of that kind kept in the building, or amongst the property insured.

6th. Bills of Exchange, Bonds and other Securities, Title Deeds, Money, Bank and other promissory Notes, are not insured in any insurance; nor are paintings, medals, jewels, gems, antique curiosities, or mirrors exceeding the value of twenty-five dollars each, to be considered as insured unless particularly mentioned and by special agreement.

7th. No insurance will be made for a shorter term than one year, nor for a longer term than seven years. Persons choosing to insure for seven years shall be allowed one year's premium by way of discount: One third of a year's premium shall be abated in like manner on an insurance for three years.

8th. Losses sustained by fire on property insured, shall be paid in thirty days after due proof and liquidation thereof, without deduction.

A description of the property to be insured will be expected with each application, to be made by a master carpenter and signed by him, as well as by the owner of the building or applicant for insurance, and attested before a Notary or principal Magistrate, who will certify his knowledge of the parties and their credibility.

With respect to Houses and other Buildings.

1st. The site and position; describing the street or road on or near which the building stands; its contiguity to water, and other circumstances relative to the extinguishment of fire in case of accident; and particularly whether any and what fire companies are established, and engines provided, in the place or neighborhood.

2d. The materials of which it is built, whether of brick, stone or wood, and what part of each, as well as to the outside walls as inside or partition walls, and their respective height and thickness; the style of the roof and of what materials; how secured by battlements or party walls; what kind of access to the top of the house and to the chimneys; whether any and what electric rods; the kind of deposit for ashes.

3d. The dimensions of the building and how divided, and the style in which it is finished so as to enable indifferent persons to judge in what manner it is to be repaired or rebuilt in case of injury; the age and condition of the building, and how occupied, whether merely as a dwelling house, or for any other, and for what purpose; also an estimate of the value of the house or building independent of the ground.

4th. The situation with respect to other buildings or back buildings, whether adjoining or not, comprehending at least one hundred feet each way; what kind of buildings are within that distance, how built, of what materials, and how occupied or used, whether as dwellings for private families or otherwise; whether any and what trade or manufactory is carried on, and particularly whether there be any extra hazardous articles used, or usually deposited in the house, or within the distance aforesaid, and of what kind.

Respecting goods in Houses, Warehouses, &c.

1. A general description of the building in which they are kept will be expected, similar in all respects, as to the danger from fire, with that required for Insurance on the buildings themselves.

2. A description of the kinds and nature of the goods, whether in casks or other packages, or opened; and whether displayed in whole pieces or in the usual form for retailing. And the goods vary materially in kind, a general estimate of the value of each kind proposed to be insured; but in the last particular minute details of description is not expected.

3. Articles of the following kinds are deemed extra hazardous, though in various degrees, in whatever building they may be placed, viz. pitch, tar, turpentine, rosin, wax, tallow, oil, inflammable spirits, sulphur, hemp, flax, cotton, dry goods of an inflammable kind opened.—Glass, china ware or porcelain, especially unpacked; Looking glasses, jewelry; and all other articles more than commonly inflammable, or more than commonly liable to injury by sudden removal or by moisture, or particularly obnoxious to theft on an alarm of fire.

Letters post paid, directed to the Secretary of the Board of Directors, will be duly attended to. An order for Insurance accompanied by the means of paying the premium, will be immediately executed on the premium being paid. If the application contain an enquiry only, it will be answered.

By order of the Board,

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That no other persons shall be entitled to the benefit of the provisions of this act, than those of the following descriptions, or their widows and heirs, viz. First, those heads of families, and single persons, not members of any such families, who were residents in one of the provinces aforesaid, prior to the fourth day of July, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-six, and who abandoned their settlements, in consequence of having given aid to the United Colonies or States, in the revolutionary War against Great-Britain, or with intention to give such aid, and continued in the United States, or in their service, during the said war, and did not return to reside in the dominions of the King of Great-Britain, prior to the twenty-fifth of November, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-three. Secondly, the widows and heirs of all such persons as were actual residents, as aforesaid, who abandoned their settlements, as aforesaid, and died within the United States, or in their service during the said war; and thirdly, all persons who were members of families at the time of their coming into the United States, and who during the war, entered into their service.

And in case any such claimant shall have sustained such losses and sufferings, or performed such services for the United States, that he cannot justly be classified in any one general class, a separate report shall be made of his circumstances, together with the quantity of land that ought to be allowed him, having reference to the foregoing ratio: Provided, that in considering what compensation ought to be made by virtue of this act, all grants except military grants, which may have been made by the United States, or individual States, shall be considered at the just value thereof, at the time the same were made, respectively, either in whole or in part, as the case may be, a satisfaction to those who may have received the same: Provided also, that no claim under this law, shall be assignable until after report made to Congress, as aforesaid, and until the said lands be granted to the persons entitled to the benefit of this act.

New-York, July 10, 1798.
To Dr. CHURCH,

Sir,
For upwards of Twelve Years, I have labored under a severe Cough, shortness of breath, spitting of matter from my lungs and often of clotted blood, till at length I was reduced so to be unable to walk across my room, and owing to the violence of my cough and the shortness of breath could get no rest day or night.—Hearing of your excellent medicine, the Cough Drops, I procured a bottle; I took a dose as soon as I got it, from which I found instantaneous relief, and by continuing it for three days, I believe you to have been the instrument in the hands of Providence, of saving my life. I must intreat you to publish this for the benefit of any who may be in my situation, as I am confident it is one of the best medicines in the world for these complaints.

I am, Sir, your grateful servant
NICHOLAS ST. AGG,

AN ORATION,

Pronounced July 4, 1798.

At the request of the Inhabitants of the Town of BOSTON, in commemoration of the anniversary of American Independence.

By Josiah Quincy.

"The inroads upon our public liberty, call for reparation—The wrongs we have sustained, call for—Justice. That Reparation and that Justice, may yet be obtained, by Union, Spirit, and Firmness. But to divide and conquer was the maxim of the Devil in the garden of Eden, and to divide and enslave hath been the principle of all his votaries from that period to the present."
